EAP Garners Invaluable Relationships at Farnborough

Irvine, California September 2, 2014 – Elite Aviation Products' executive management team recently had the pleasure of building their network of potential business partners while attending the Farnborough International Airshow (FIA) in Farnborough, England. Attending industry events like the Farnborough International Airshow not only keeps Elite's executive management team up to speed on the most current research and trends, but also provides them with the opportunity to nourish valuable relationships with industry leaders in the civil, defense, and space sectors.

"Being part of an event as big as the Farnborough Airshow allows us to gauge the pulse of the marketplace," Stated Dustin Tillman, CEO of Elite Aviation Products, "It really is quite inspiring to be brushing elbows with heads of state, politicians, government officials, and even five star generals, all focused on adding momentum to the aviation industry."

Industry giants who attended Farnborough include: Pratt & Whitney, Boeing, United Technologies, GE, Rolls Royce, GKN Aerospace and Airbus to name a few. By the close of the exhibition, FIA organizers confirmed that a total of 201 Billion dollars' worth of orders and commitments for aircraft were made over the course of the trade event, shattering their previous record. This incredible amount of business is testament to the health of the aviation industry.

"The current state of the industry is absolutely awe-inspiring," said Zeeshawn Zia, COO of Elite Aviation Products, "never before have we seen the magnitude of aircraft orders that we are now experiencing. Being at Farnborough and seeing industry leaders, government officials, and all those involved in the industry looking towards the innovative future of aviation, recognizing potential struggles, and working together to align and overcome them was an amazing experience. Finding more opportunities to embed our company and our culture into the marketplace like this will be greatly beneficial to the future of Elite Aviation Products."
